THE WEEKLY SUN NEW YORK. 1876. Ecighteen hundred and seventy-six is the Centennial year. It is also the year in which an Opposition House of Representatives, the first since the war, will be in power at Washington; and the year of the twenty-third election of a President of the United States. An of these events are sure to be of great interest and importance, especially the two latter: and all of them and everything connected with them will be fairly and freshly reported and expounded in The Son. The Opposition House of depresentatives, taking up the line of inquiry opened years ago by The San, will steruly and diligently investigate the corruptions and misdeeds of Grant's adjunistration; and will, it is to be hoped, lay the foundation for a new and better period in our national nistory. Or all this The San will contain complete and accurate accounts, furnishing its readers with early and trustworthy information dipon these absorbing topies.

The twenty-inred Presidential election, with the preparations for it, will be memorable as deciding upon Grant's aspurations for a turd term of power and plunder, and still more as deciding who shall be the candidate of the party of Reform, and as electing that candidate. Concerning all these subjects, those who read The San will have the constant means of being thoroughly well informed.

will have the constant means of l The Weetly San, which has attained a circulation of over eighty thousand copies, aheady has its readers in every State and Territory, and we trust that the year 18,6 will see their numbers doubled. It will continue to be a thorough new paper. All the general news of the day will be found in it, condeased when unimportant, at full length when of moment; and always, we trust treated in a clear, interesting and instructive manner.
